History

The history of Holy Spirit Parish dates back to the mid-1940's, approximately nine years after Pope Pius XI created the Diocese of Paterson in 1937. Bishop Thomas Henry McLaughlin was appointed to head the new Diocese, and he named Fr. John Hewetson as the Pastor of what would become St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lincoln Park. Fr. Hewetson not only built up St. Joseph's Parish, but began a Mission in Pequannock, which later became Holy Spirit Parish.

In June 1946, Fr. Hewetson celebrated Holy Spirit's first Mass in the Pequannock Firehouse at the corner of Lincoln Park Road and Oak Street. Midnight Mass was celebrated there for the first time on Christmas Eve, 1947. In 1948, a movement began to build a Catholic Church in Pequannock, and permission was granted in 1949 for construction to begin.

The first Mass at the new Holy Spirit Church was celebrated on February 12, 1950, and on June 18, 1950, Bishop Thomas A. Boland dedicated the new church building. On September 9, 1950, Fr. Joseph R. Brestel was appointed Pastor of Holy Spirit Parish. The first religious instruction classes were instituted that year, and the first Confirmation was celebrated on May 18, 1952.

On December 2, 1954, Fr. John H. Dericks was appointed Pastor of Holy Spirit Parish. On May 1, 1955, the rectory was dedicated by Bishop James A. McNulty.

Pastors/Administrators serving at Holy Spirit Parish following Fr. John Dericks were:
